29 ½ - 18 ½

Team Blue padded their lead today. Kevin Long continued to be the Grey slayer as he and Doug Morris collected 3 points in their match. Matt Albinati shot a sizzling 65 today and others having a great day were Carriere, Boyd, and Lainchbury just to name a few. Some had their struggles. KC had trouble hitting his irons. "I think it was due to a touch of oxygen deprivation from the underwater breath holding competition with the Shane yesterday". While Team Blue is happy being in the lead, there are 48 points up for grabs day 4 making this competition far from over.

Coup Attempt Thwarted

Some shocking news coming out of Team Grey. Prior to the picking of Day 3 pairings, Two rogue Grey teammates attempted to put together a day 3 player pairing list that would be the "true common people's choice". The coup attempt was in protest of the current "two person dictatorship that exists in Greyville". The manifesto was delivered to the Team Grey leadership by one D. Radbourne who claimed to be an innocent delivery person just "trying to help out". The list was destroyed and Truhn/Krupka remain in charge. Authorities are looking for Sean Gillis and his unnamed cohort who are believed to be the instigators

Drunk Dude of the Day

The Shane is the obvious winner. Down for the count very early. Many are starting to call Mr. Smith "The Shame" partly because of his demeanor and partly due to the ½ point per year contributions to Team Grey.
